Washington, July 5 (AP)—Congress members of both parties acknowledged privately today there is a 50-50 chance of a special session by October, primarily to work out a program for financing Europe's recovery. TRAFFIC TOLL IN JUNE TOPS MAY; NAB 77 DRIVERS

June's traffic toll was less than June a year ago but heavier than May, according to the recapitulation made by the local sub-station of the state police.

During June the officials investigated 20 accidents in which 24 persons were injured and property damage totalled $7,105. For the same month in 1946, there were 22 auto accidents, three persons were killed in two of those accidents and nine were injured. Damage was estimated at $2,512. For May there were 16 accidents in which two were killed and five injured. Damage totaled $4,860.

In the attempts to cut down bad driving habits on the part of motorists in the county, the state police made 77 arrests on motor code violations, 16 of them in connection with the 20 accidents. There were 41 traffic cases pending at the beginning of the month, 78 persons were convicted in June of traffic violations and two were discharged.

Covered 18,930 Miles

Failure to yield one-half the highway and driving too fast for conditions were the main causes for accidents, the police recapitulation discloses. The Littlestown road had the most accidents, three, of any road, but crashes occurred throughout the county.

The officers made 427 patrols, 13 criminal investigations, 250 state department investigations and four other investigations. They recovered $87.80 worth of stolen property and made 13 arrests on criminal charges. During the month 12 persons charged by state police with criminal charges were convicted and one was discharged.

In the performance of their duties, the officers spent 144 hours on criminal investigations, 1,289 hours on station duty and 210 hours on special duty. They traveled 18,800 miles in cars and 130 miles on motorcycles during the month.

Damage to the Elliott car was estimated at $15 and to the Hanover car, $10. No charges were filed.

HEAVY TRAFFIC HERE OVER 4TH; TOWN IS QUIET

Gettysburg, quietly celebrating Independence Day, played host to the largest number of tourists in recent years, National Park records disclose.

An estimated 9,588 persons went over the park during the day and guided tours were far above July 4, 1946. An automatic counter placed on Hancock avenue disclosed that 2,397 cars had passed that point up to early Friday evening and park officials said that at least four persons were in most cars.

There were 193 guided tours during the day as compared to 151 for the same date a year ago.

Many Head West

The mountains claimed hundreds of holiday celebrators apparently. A check at 10 o'clock Friday morning on York street showed 250 cars passing west in 25 minutes. During that time there were 15 cars headed east.

While the tourists visited Gettysburg, Gettysburgians went elsewhere for the day. The town was quiet and most of those to be seen in the borough were tourists.

In contrast to several decades ago the town was very quiet. Most "old timers" spent the day remarking at the quiet that prevailed during a day traditionally connected with fireworks and loud explosions. There seemed to be no explosives other than "caps" available, together with a few sparklers that were to be seen in the early evening.

State police stationed at the Maryland line on the Emmitsburg road handed out 505 road maps and other literature to out-of-state motorists coming into Pennsylvania. The number of visitors was the largest in some time.

Robert J. Collins, Jr., driver of the vehicle was said by state police, who are continuing their investigation, to have been driving north when the crash occurred. According to police the car went out of control on a sharp left curve just over the York county line and continued on to the right, rolled over and hit the tree. The group was on leave and headed for Buffalo, according to police.

Camalleri was seated in the left rear of the car, with Burke beside him, Stewart to the right of Burke and Clark in the right rear of the car. Barmore was in the right front seat with John Seavy, also of Cherry Point, in the center of the front seat. Neither the driver nor Seavy was injured.

This morning state police were called to investigate an accident in Abbottstown in which a truck is said to have struck a parked car.

Here And There

News Collected At Random

Gettysburg's Blue and Gray band can take a well-deserved bow for the fine concert it played Thursday evening in center square. The local musicians have made remarkable progress since the organization was revived after the war and the fair-sized crowd loudly applauded their performance on Thursday.

This organization is a credit to the community and the musicians are to be congratulated upon their service. All the men serve without pay and willingly oblige when called upon to take part in public functions.

A local motorist should pat himself on the back today just because he is not in the hospital or in the morgue.

Late Friday afternoon, driving a small pickup truck, he plowed out of the alley near the Gas Corporation office and into Carlistle street traffic without so much as a glance to the right or the left and without stopping. He drove his truck into the street at a rate of speed far beyond any decent sense of judgment and turned north. An approaching motorist, from the north, said that had he not been driving less than 20 miles an hour he would not have been able to avoid a serious crash with the pickup truck, with at least two other motorists becoming involved.

* * *

Something certainly should be done NOW about the dangerous intersection at York Springs where so many fatal accidents have occurred.

One suggestion recently advanced might prevent further fatal crashes until the highway department corrects the hazards. The suggestion is that the highways, for a distance of at least 200 feet from the intersection, be painted with wide white cross lines across the entire width as a warning signal to all motorists, approaching from four directions, of the danger ahead.

The cause of the crashes are the result of carelessness on the part of one or more motorists. But if the highways were painted with warning signs it might help to curb some of the mishaps.

RED STAND ON EUROPEAN AID CALLED "FOLLY"

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Charlottesville, Va., July 5 (AP) — President Truman today awaited world reaction to his Independence Day address denouncing as "folly" Russia's stand against a proposal for a joint European recovery plan.

Close associates said they believe Mr. Truman clings to the hope that the Soviet Union may yet decide to go along with the suggestion by Secretary of State Marshall despite the breakup of a preliminary conference in Paris.

Speaking to a holiday crowd at Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, Mr. Truman yesterday sharply denounced Russia's argument that the Marshall plan would mean the surrender of self-determination for nations of Europe.

"This is as fallacious," he said, "as the refusal of a man to enter a profitable business partnership on the ground that it would involve interference in his private affairs."

Target Is Obvious

At no point did he mention Russia by name, but the target of his remarks was obvious.

He called for an end to "organized mistrust" which he said leads the world's people away from "peace and unity."

He said there should be no more "propaganda attacks upon other nations" and suggested that after two World Wars all countries should appreciate "the folly of a nationalism so extreme as to block economic planning among nations for peaceful reconstruction."

A few hours after Mr. Truman spoke, British Foreign Ssecretary Ernest Bevin declared in London that Russia may find "that you can carry provocation too far."

"America and Britain," Bevin said in an address before the American society, "will continue to think alike."

Invite Smaller Nations

The British and French have invited 22 smaller European nations to a meeting to discuss cooperative plans for economic recover despite Russia's decision to hold aloof.

Mr. Truman said one requisite for peace is for "all nations and all peoples" to "break down the artificial barriers that separate them."

He appealed for " a free flow of knowledge and ideas that alone can lead to a harmonious world" and added: "Unfortunately a number of countries maintain barriers against the flow of information and ideas into, or out of, their territories."

He said some of them, "behind barriers of their own creation," give their citizens "carefully selected or distorted versions of the facts about other countries."

Appropriations For Pa. Hospitals Made

Harrisburg, July 5 (AP)—The financial backbone of Gov. James H. Duff's $82,000,000 program to expand csthe Commonwealth's overcrowded mental hospitals was complete today.

Appropriations totalling more than $25,000,000 were signed into law by the executive on the eve of the July Fouth holiday to add to $65,000,000 previously available from other sources.

The new allocations were $16,000,000 from current revenues, including the new taxes on soft drinks, cigarettes and beer, and $9,290,000 released for hospital construction by the repeal of 1945 postwar appropriations for armories office buildings and capitol park improvements.

Previously, Governor Duff signed into law an appropriation of $45,000,000 from a $50,000,000 bond issue for public works approved by the electorate two years ago with the remaining $5,000,000 going for continuance of the state's desilting program on the Schuylkill river.

Astral Phenomenon Being Investigated

Philadelphia, July 5 (AP)-An astral phenomenon was being investigated here today to determine whether Philadelphians had seen mysterious "Flying Discs" in the sky..

Dr. M. K. Leisy, a junior interne at the Pennsylvania hospital for mental diseases, and other persons in the western section of the city, reported seeing strange craft in the skies last night.

It was something round with a luminous halo about it, Dr. Leisy declared. It was not shiny itself, but dark in color and seemed to be propelled by whirling wings.

Contrary to previous reports from other parts of the country on the high speed of the flying discs. Dr. Leisy said the object he saw was moving at approximately the speed of the wind. Below the clouds. It eventually vanished in the clouds, he added.

MINERS IN WEST AND SOUTH WAIT FOR COAL PEACE

By STERLING F. GREEN

Washington, July 5 (AP) — The United Mine Workers Policy Committee meets today to ratify a contract with northern mine owners which will assure a year's digging in 40 per cent of the country's coal pits.

Southern operators, source of another 25 per cent of the coal output, waited to see the full contract terms before deciding whether to buy peace at the same price.

Their miners will not return to work next Tuesday, when the industry-wide, 10-day vacation ends, if a contract is lacking.

Still to be heard from were western and midwestern producers. They were expected, however, to fall in line with the tentative northern agreement. It gives the John L. Lewis union a 44½ cent basic hourly wage boost.

Boost Coal Price

For the public, the contract means a new price boost in coal. UMW officials guessed it as 67 cents; some operators said up to $1 and in some mines perhaps more.

Members of the Southern Coal Operators Association "don't like it," one member of that group said after a meeting yesterday, and some feel that the northern contingent is "giving the industry to Lewis."

But they arranged to meet again at 4 p. m. (3 p. m., E.S.T.) today, at exactly the same hour Lewis called the session of his 200-member national policy committee in UMW headquarters to read the final northern terms and ask for a vote on acceptance.

UMW and management lawyers worked all day yesterday, and expected to continue today, on the language of the agreement. Not until they finish do the southern operators expect to learn what terms they face.

Major Agreement

On the major issues, the terms are these:

A $13.05 basic wage for eight hours, including walking time. This figures out a $1.63 an hour compared to the old basic rate of $1.18½. The old working day was nine hours, of which two and a half commanded overtime pay.

A 10-cent a ton levy on each ton of coal mined, instead of the present five cents, to support the UMW Welfare Fund.

Acceptance of the federal mine safety code as a standard condition of work.

There was uncertainty, however, about the phrasing of certain other important Lewis demands, including protection from penalty terms of the Taft-Hartley act and a clause specifying that the miners will work when "willing and able."

Lewis was reported to have abandoned his insistence on six paid holidays a year and additional overtime for Saturday and Sunday work.

YANKS WIN IN BRITISH TENNIS

By BILL MACKLIN

London, July 5 (AP)—American tennis players, assured of three Wimbledon tennis titles, can win four and have a share in a fifth as the 1947 tournament winds up today.

On the worn center court where yesterday Jack Kramer won the men's championship from his fellow Californian, Tom Brown, American women start the ball rolling as top-seeded Margaret Osborne and third-seeded Doris Hart tangle for the women's title vacated by Pauline Betz.

The American team of Kramer and Bob Falkenburg get into action in the final of the men's doubles against the "giant killers" of this event, unseeded Tony Mottram of Britain and Australia's Billy Sidwell. On their path to the final, Mottram and Sidwell eliminated two seeded pairs, America's Brown and Budge Patty, and Australia's John Bromwich and Dinny Pails.

Kramer won the men's doubles last year in partnership with Brown.

Four American women play in the final of the women's doubles. Defending champions Miss Osborne and Louise Brough meet Miss Hart and Mrs. Pat Todd. Miss Brough takes another bow in the center court when in partnership with Australia's Bromwich, she contests the final of the mixed doubles against an all-Australian team of Colin Long and Mrs. Nancye Wynne Bolton.

TRACKS, PARKS GET BIG CROWDS

New York, July 5 (AP)—The guy who recently suggested another holiday to break the long span between July Fourth and Labor Day can have a free ticket to the major league ballparks or the racetracks anytime.

It's a great idea, says the baseball magnates and the track owners, surveying yesterday's attendance totals. The eight doubleheaders drew 283,736 fans, while the 13 horseparks operating across the nation clicked 309,494 improvers of the breed through the turnstiles.

With the exception of one track, no new records were set, but neither did figures indicate any great slump when compared to previous holiday totals. The baseball crowd total was the largest this year, topping Decoration Day by several hundred and almost 50,000 greater than July Fourth, 1946. The record holiday crowd is 288,987 and the record doubleheader attendance more than 300,000—both of long standing.

This year's racing attendance was only slightly below that of July Fourth, 1946, when 316,803 turned out at the 14 tracks operating last July Fourth. The aggregate mutuel play yesterday was $14,624,826, compared with $15,163,630 a year ago.

Last Memorial Day, the 14 tracks had 376,621 customers contributing $15,937,136—an all-time high — to the iron men.

Yesterdays Stars

Batting, Jeff Heath, Browns—Hammered five hits in doubleheader, driving in seven runs, including one triple and his 12th and 13th homers. One homer came with the bases loaded.

Pitching, Ewell Blackwell, Reds—Blanked Pittsburgh with six hits, 8-0, for 14th win and 12th straight victory, boosting league-leading strikeout total to 100 with nine victims. It was his fifth shutout.

Sunday's Game
First Half

Arendtsville at Bendersville.

Arendtsville took a full game lead in the first half race of the Adams County Baseball league which officially ended its first half schedule on Friday. The ultimate first place team may not be decided for some time due to a number of postponements.

The Apple Pickers won a 4-1 victory over Orrtanna in 10 innings before a large crowd at Orrtanna Friday afternoon. Orrtanna protested the game after a ground rule argument held up the contest 15 minutes in the eighth inning. Arendtsville tabbed a run in the seventh inning and Orrtanna tallied in the eighth. In the same inning an Orrtanna runner was sent back to third base on a ground rule after apparently scoring and the final out was made on the next batter. Arendtsville came up with a trio of runs in the 10th to clinch the game. Walters and Bushey formed the battery for Arendtsville while C. Rebert and J. Wetzel performed for Orrtanna. K. Deardorff collected three safeties for Orrtanna.

Fairfield will play at Orrtanna Tuesday evening at 6:15 o'clock in a first half game.

Orrtanna nosed out Emmitsburg 4-2 in the morning game at Emmitsburg.

Locals Bow, Tie

The Gettysburg Legion team outhit Hanover in the opening game on the latter's field but bowed 12-2. In the afternoon Gettysburg and New Oxford battled to a 5-5 tie in six innings before a storm caused the game to be called.

Bendersville bowed in a slugfest to Emmitsburg in the afternoon at Emmitsburg, 13-10, and dropped to second place.

On Sunday Bendersville and Arendtsville clash at Bendersville in an important first half game.

Fairfield divided a pair of games at Fairfield. In the morning McSherrystown gained a 15-10 victory which was called at the end of the seventh frame due to the 12 o'clock rule.

In the afternoon Fairfield nosed out Hanover, 4-2. Each team scored twice in the second inning, Hanover's runs being unearned. Fairfield won the game in the eighth with a pair of unearned tallies gained when an outfielder dropped L. Sites' fly with runners on second and third.

New Oxford upset Littlestown, 10-7, in a morning tilt at New Oxford and is now in a tie with Orrtanna and Emmitsburg for fourth place.

Littlestown gained an even break for the holiday by smashing out a 10-5 win over McSherrystown in the afternoon at Littlestown.

'Porky' Oliver In Lead At Chicago

Chicago, July 5 (AP)—Ed (Porky) Oliver of Wilmington, Del., who looks like he could play tackle on anybody's football team, was the shooter they desperately were chasing as a 90-man field entered the semi-final round of the $30,000 all-American golf tournament today.

The 218-pound Oliver, whose red-hot 65, 7 under par, yesterday gave him a record-breaking 36-hole aggregate of 131 strokes, 13 under par, apparently had only one threat—an international showdown for the $7,000 first prize with South African Bobby Locke.

Locke, pre-meet favorite and a hand-picked entry by Promoter George S. May for a substantial appearance purse, trailed Oliver by three strokes with 134 after belting a July Fourth round of 68 at par 72 Tam O'Shanter course.

Melvin (Chick) Harbert, Detroit, Mich., slasher, had 136, only five strokes off the pace, and Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., was a stroke behind that.

MYTH INDICATES DODGER-YANKEE WORLD SERIES

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Brooklyn will meet the New York Yankees in the World Series according to the pleasant myth that accepts the July 4th evening standings as an infallible guide of things to come.

Myth is the word for it as far as the National league is concerned for only four times in the last 10 years has it worked out that way.

This is the sixth time in the last eight years that the Dodgers have been leading the parade at this stage. The 1941 pennant is the only flag that has waved over Flatbush since 1920.

American league clubs have been more consistent. The last six July 4 leaders have clicked home first in September and nine of the last 10, counting 1938 when the Yankees, the eventual winners, were tied with Cleveland.

Crowded By Boston

In 1946 the Dodgers were out front by 7 ball games and the St. Louis Cards were but a distant menace. Memories of the Cards' torrid finish, resultant playoff series with Brooklyn and ultimate World Series win are too fresh around Ebbets field to encourage any early series reservations.

The Cards, it might be wise to note, are in a better position than they were last summer, five games back, although they are tied with Chicago for fourth place.

A pair of Dodger wins over New York were necessary to keep Brooklyn in first place up to this very hour because Boston, crowding close, won a pair from the faltering Phillies moving to within one game of the top.

Homer For Mort Cooper

Brooklyn piled up a 16-7 edge over the Giants in the morning game at Ebbets field. President Branch Rickey had revived an ancient custom by splitting the holiday doubleheader into separate morning and afternoon games, requiring separate admissions. He collected on a total of 52,897 instead of a probable 33,000.

Harry Taylor squeezed home past Mort Cooper in the afternoon tilt, 4-3 on Gene Hermanski's pinch single following Johnny Jorgenson's double in the ninth. Cooper enlivened the proceedings by smashing a homer, the Giants' 35th in 15 consecutive games for a new league record, he also stopped Jackie Robinson's hitting streak at 21 games.

Johnny Sain hurled the Braves to an opening 10-3 nod over the Phils for his 10th victory and Walter Lanfranconi, dragged out of the bull pen for his first complete game, responded with a four-hitter, 7-1. Frank McCormick had 4 for 4 in the first game to highlight a Boston barrage that netted 27 hits during the day.

Cards Split

The St. Louis Cards continued to play inconsistently, shutting out Chicago, 7-0 on Red Munger's three-hitter but then blowing the second 5-4, to remain deadlocked with the Cubs. Howie Pollet was belted out in the third with his eighth loss.

Cincinnati, which might become a surprise factor in this race, continued to move with a double win over Pittsburgh, 8-0 behind Ewell Blackwell and 6-4 behind reliefer Harry Gumbert. It was the 14th win for Blackwell and his 12th in succession.

The Yankees ran their win streak to five by downing Washington twice, 7-3 and 4-2. Spud Chandler hit a homer to help himself to a ninth win in the opener and Joe Dimaggio's triple started a game winning rally in the eighth of the second that went to Joe Page on some brilliant relief pitching.

The Yankee Stadium crowd of 56,717 was the largest of the day's total of 283,736 fans.

A's, Boston Divide

Boston finally shook off the Philadelphia A's after dropping the first game to the Mackmen, 8-6, in 12 innings, the sixth straight loss to that club. In the second tilt, Tex Hughson turned in an impressive three-hit 4-0 shutout.

Detroit took a 13-6 walloping from Cleveland and then just managed to hold on for a 4-4 tie in the second game, called by agreement at the end of the ninth.

The last-place St. Louis Browns thumped Chicago 10-2 after losing the opener, 6-3 with Jeff Heath's hitting featuring both games. Big Jeff made five hits and drove in seven runs. His two homers, one with the bases full, were his 12th and 13th of the year.

ON THE MOVE

Murphysboro, Ill., (AP)—Telegraph and railroad troubleshooters who are touring the flooded area between here and the Mississippi river say that "even the frogs are taking to high ground."

They also reported seeing hundreds of snakes, groundhogs, skunks, rats, opossum and other animals routed into the open by the flood waters.

Common sights, they said, were floating shocks of wheat with rabbits riding the currents atop them and munching the grain.

A Texan last year shot down 867 golden eagles from his airplane.

Large deposits of bauxite are found in South America.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, July 5 (AP)—When Larry French retired as a major league pitcher, he had only a few games to go to reach the mark of 200 victories. He even asked to pitch occasionally for Brooklyn while he was in the navy in order to achieve that distinction. . . . He didn't make it, but don't be surprised if some day Larry French, Jr., picks up where his Dad left off. . . . Larry, Senior, is coaching an American Legion team in Santa Monica, Calif., which had compiled a fine record and one of his star pitchers is his 15-year-old son. . . . French says that several of the kids, including his own, are potential big leaguers. . . . The only hitch is that Larry, Jr., at 15, weighs 205 pounds. Some football coach is liable to grab him before he grows up.

WEAK-END NOTES

Fitzy Fitzpatrick, former West Virginia coal miner who fights Ezzard Charles in Cincinnati July 14, never heard a sound until he was 14 years old. Then he began to study the Bible and got mixed up in a few ripsnorting fights with other tough kids in Oak Hill, W. Va. . . . Soon afterward he began to hear—and he's continued fighting and Bible reading ever since. . . . Even before work has begun on enlarging the Orange Bowl to 60,000 capacity, a sellout is assured for the New Year's Day football game in Miami. . . . But the rebuilding has shortened center field in the Miami park so much that the fans are calling it "Homerville, Fla."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Probably the oldest and most ambitious guy entered in the A.A.U. track meet at Lincoln, Neb., was Burt Hooper of Hawaii. He's 50 years old and put his name down for the 3,000 meter walk, the 10,000 meter run and the steeplechase. . . . Most confusing to reporters is Eshref Aydin of Turkey. He knows just two English phrases, "How do you do" and "Thank you very much" but always gets them mixed up. . . . Listen for the howls from the South about the Red Sox signing 18-year-old Chuck Stobbs of Norfolk. Virtually every college grid coach in that sector wanted him. . . . Joe (I want to be a Dodgers) Tepsic recently stole three bases in one game for the Fort Worth Cats on a slow, muddy field. In Brooklyn he couldn't even get on base.

RIFLE MATCH TIED

Altoona, Pa., July 5 (AP)—C. Wayne Moore of Washington, Pa., and Bill Sweitzer of Hillside, N. J., were tied for the lead today with scores of 1585 in the annual Eastern Regional small bore rifle tournament. The tournament, which opened yesterday and will end Sunday, attracted 168 of the east's rifle shots. Rance Triggs of Madison, N. J., followed Moore and Sweitzer with a 1586 score.

Today's Talk

LOOK UP, AND ON—EXPECT!

I am very sure that the Lord is always on the side of the cheerful one—the one who looks up, not down, and who looks far ahead, and who expects the objective of his dreams.

Blind optimism reaps very little, but a cheerful outlook reaps much. Its background is made up of faith, determination, and a high heart. When I first met Gene Tunney, he was known to but a few. We had long talks, and I admired his intelligence and his skill as a boxer, for I often watched him box. I said: "Gene, you will be the next World's Champion!" Quickly he replied: "Mr. Adams, I expect to be!" And he was.

The seeds of the future of a human being are planted early within him, or her. No one exactly knows just what seeds are planted, but the one in whose consciousness they are planted knows. And from them are dreams of expectancy.

We get, mostly, what we deserve in this life. And what we don't deserve we have to pay double for. But the cheapest investment lies in one's self-confidence and will to win. When we expect much we are pretty sure to get much. And so I would say: Keep your chin up. Look ahead. Expect!

None of us know our real possibilities until we put our forces to work. We often surprise ourselves. Trouble, poverty, and failure are often our life savers. We learn to overcome failure, brush aside trouble, and rise above poverty. It is done over and over again. And what has been done by one can be done by another.

We should take life in its stride. An inch at a time, perhaps, is better than a smile at a time—missing all that might have been possible between. For progress, without understanding and a right appraisal, might prove disastrous. We ought to fit our dream!

It has a debt of pride to pay

OVER 200 DEAD ACROSS NATION OVER HOLIDAY

(By The Associated Press)

More than 200 persons lost their lives in violent accidents yesterday as generally fair weather throughout the country lured millions to Fourth of July holiday events.

Of the 219 violent deaths recorded from 6 p. m. Thursday until today, four resulted from fireworks. Drownings and traffic accidents accounted for most of the fatalities, with 92 persons drowned and 79 killed in highway mishaps. There were 44 persons killed violently from miscellaneous causes, including several in plane crashes.

An explosion of skyrockets at a family reunion in Elk Neck, Md., cost the lives of three persons, William Cameron, 33; his eight year old daughter, Ann, and her cousin, Ruth Anne Holmes, 2. Another death was caused by fireworks in Maine.

Texas Leads

Highways across the country were crowded with cars and the National Safety Council, in estimating 30,000,000 machines would be on the highways over the three-day holiday, predicted 275 persons would be killed in traffic accidents.

In last year's four-day weekend Fourth of July holiday there were 512 violent deaths, including 231 traffic fatalities; 163 drowned, and 118 killed in miscellaneous accidents.

Today's tabulation showed Texas leading the nation with 16 violent deaths, including five drownings, five in traffic mishaps and six by miscellaneous causes. New York ranked second, with 14, including seven persons drowned.

Assessments Can Be Changed

Harrisburg, July 5 (AP) — Property assessments can be changed up or down by county boards as assessments in most Pennsylvania counties under a new law signed by Gov. James H. Duff today.

The measure, amending the commonwealth's 1943 tax assessment law applies to property valuations in 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th class counties for taxes for county, borough, town, township and school purposes.

Previously county boards were permitted to hear appeals from revisions made by local elected assessors, but the new law also requires that boards "examine and inquire" whether assessments made by local officials are in accordance with the law.

In addition, the new statute states the boards "shall revise, increase or decrease assessments and valuations as in their judgment may seem proper," and also add such properties to the assessment rolls which may have been omitted by local officials.

The 1943 law also was changed to permit appeals of property owners from assessment changes made by the board on its own initiative.

Duff also signed legislation requiring boards of review of third class cities to notify property owners of assessments every three years only in cases where the valuation has been increased or decreased since the previous assessment.

Devers Agrees With Marshall On Army

Philadelphia, July 5 (AP)—Gen. Jacob L. Devers, Army Ground Forces commander, says he agrees with Secretary of State George C. Marshall's assertion that the nation must maintain its military posture.

The army and navy owe to the people of the United States the duty of maintaining forces that will insure the security of the country against armed aggression, General Devers said here yesterday in an address at a stay-at-home celebration sponsored by the Evening Bulletin in Fairmount Park.

Adm. John H. Towers, chairman of the general board of the Navy Department told the same audience: "We must do all in our power to prevent war, but disarmament is not the answer. There are always those who will try to take advantage of weakness. We must maintain our military strength."

In ceremonies at historic Independence Hall, City Councilman Davids Jamieson said Americans must rededicate themselves to the principles of the Declaration of Independence if democracy is to survive.

Hollywood News

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, (AP)—British star Phyllis Calvert has ended her contract with J. Arthur Rank, but she will continue to commute between England and Hollywood.

Unlike many English players who have become free from their commitments at home, Phyllis is not going to settle here. She is too fond of her country home in England, which she would have to give up if she established residence here. So she will make one or two films in the six months she is permitted to remain in the U. S. yearly. She is here now for "My Own True Love" at Paramount.

Phyllis' introduction to Hollywood was unfortunate. She arrived when U-I was undergoing merger pains, and almost concluded that the whole town was in a state of confusion. She likes it here now.

Joseph Cotten, happy with "The Farmer's Daughter," goes back to RKO to play the newspaperman turned press agent in "The Harder They Fall," Budd Schulberg's fight yarn. Emphasis will be placed on Cotten's role and boxing scenes will be at a minimum. It will be the first producing job for Eddie Dmytryk, who will also direct.

Gene Autry is a happy man, having won his final freedom from Republic. He'll make all his future films with his own unit at Columbia and all will be in color. Budgets are set at $500,000, against $150,000 for his costliest picture at Republic. But Gene expects color to bring in the added revenue.

"Forever Amber" has received the final okay from the Johnston office, reports Director Otto Preminger, and the film will reach the screens in November. It will have a simultaneous road show release in 1,000 theaters, which seems to be the fad these days

Melvyn Douglas is another free man. He has been released from MGM, for which he has been campaigning since he got out of the army. He will free-lance, except for a one-a-year deal with RKO.

Rex Harrison will go to England next month, regardless of whether labor difficulties can be ironed out on the filming of "Escape" over there. If British unions won't permit the picture because of plans for a partly American crew, the trip will merely be a vacation for Rex and Lilli Palmer.

Columbia bosses must have foreseen "The Jolson Story" success because both Larry Parks and Evelyn Keyes were signed to new contracts before its release. Now both are unhappy. Evelyn wants the chance to accept outside offers she has had. Larry wants that plus more mazuma.

Jimmy Durante will have to forego his plans to tour English music halls this summer. He will be busy with "On An Island With You," as well as preparing for his new air show.

Newcomer Lucille Norman has been given some expensive tests at Paramount, and it looks as though she will be opposite Bing Crosby in "A Connecticut Yankee." Apparently too much money is wanted for Deanna Durbin's services in that film. That's too bad, because it would be the best thing in the world for Deanna's career.

Dana Andrews is still searching for a good story to make for his independent production. So far he has received over 600 properties, read 83, approved 0.

TOWN ISOLATED IN ILLINOIS BY 'WORST FLOOD'

Grand Tower, Ill., July 5 (AP)—This southern Illinois river town was completely isolated today by the worst flood in its flood-studded history.

It could be reached from the outside only by amphibian plane or boat. Food, milk and other necessities were being supplied by boat under the supervision of the Coast Guard. The flood waters reached almost to second story windows in some places.

The Mississippi river gauge last night showed a reading of 40.5 feet, which was .7 of a foot above the previous high mark recorded in 1943. The gauge keeper expected the water to rise "a little higher" before receding.

The townspeople, who had battled valiantly against invasion by the turgid river, had to give up the fight Thursday night when their hastily erected barricade of sandbags was breached by the muddy waters. The business district and most of the residential area were quickly flooded as water poured through the 30-foot break, but all residents reached high ground safely. The only casualty was 12-year-old Billy Clutts, who suffered a broken ankle when his home was inundated.

The homeless, numbering about 600, were being sheltered in tents and two schoolhouses located on high ground. Something in the nature of a Fourth of July rally was held last night under the direction of Mrs. L. K. Jackson, Red Cross canteen chairman. Plans were discussed for building a permanent levee along the waterfront as well as for beautifying the town. Tribute was paid Mayor Jesse Grammer for his strenuous efforts during the fight against the flood.

Previously the town has turned down proposals for a levee, because the residents felt it would obstruct the view of the river and spoil the town's river front park.

'CHUTIST HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Detroit, July 5 (AP)—Warren A. Berg 28-year-old professional parachutist, today nursed a wrenched ankle and a few scratches, souvenirs of a second close call with death.

Berg was supposed to alight from 2,500 feet in front of the Carl A. Stitt American Legion post yesterday afternoon as part of a "Fourth of GI" carnival. After plummeting about 1,000 feet he noticed the cords had entangled in his main parachute, preventing it from opening.

He opened his emergency 'chute and reefed in his main 'chute as it threatened to become entangled with the second one. Then he fell on the roof of the home of James Collins, Jr., ripping off a section of the eves. Collins put up a ladder and assisted the parachutist to earth, six blocks from the carnival.

A year ago Burke, performing at Adrian, Mich., collided with a small airplane at 1,200 feet. He clung to the tail of the plane and rode with it to the ground, opening his emergency 'chute to slow the aircraft's descent.

Asked if he would complete other scheduled jumps at the three-day carnival, Berg replied: "I don't see why not. I guess I've proved parachute jumping is safe."

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Member S.A.E.

The only trouble with common sense in driving is the fact that it isn't common enough.

Never A Dull Moment

Never having been worth a hoot in spelling I suppose I have something of the kindred feeling spirit when the oddities pop up in my daily mail. However, of late some of the exhibits have been worth framing. One motorist advised that he was concerned because his engine "idoled" unevenly. Another letter mentioned failure of the engine to take hold when the driver stepped on the "exhilarator." Prize of the month, however, is the engine described as running "afuel."

Those Synthetic Tubes

If you have been having trouble with synthetic inner tubes this may be the apropos time to make a mental note of the fact that it is highly important to lubricate such tubes when inserting them in their shoes. A vegetable oil lube is used for this purpose. But that isn't all. Equally important is the manner of inflating the tube.

There are three distinct steps to follow. First the tube is inflated. Then it is completely deflated. Then it is inflated again. In this way every portion of the tube is equally expanded against the inside of the shoe. There are no kinks or over-expanded sections. Chaffing is thus eliminated and those mysterious punctures forestalled.

Believe me, this is no frill. The leading tire men know it, but if you have to buy a new tube along the road you may have some trouble getting cooperation. If there is any reason to question how the tubes have been installed, better stop off at a tire specialist and have the job done properly. It will be good insurance against future trouble.

Maybe You Know

That low gasoline mileage on many an older car is due to a stretching of the timing chain. If the chain jumps a tooth, timing is late and the engine wasteful because of sluggishness.

That when an engine starts easily with a short push, but won't go into action with cranking, the battery usually is weak or it is handicapped by poor connections.

That many a unit of the car can be returned to efficient condition by taking it apart and putting it together again. Carburetors illustrate it. Troublesome clutches and transmissions often can be brought into line by loosening their bolts and realigning them with the engine.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"Among the things that seem to happen to automobiles but which actually do not is so-called 'leakage' of engine oil from the crankcase vents. What happens is that oil mist is driven out of the crankcase via the vents or the oil filler pipe, there to condense into fluid form. This gives the appearance of actual leakage. No harm in getting the wrong slant except where you are looking for the cause. If you do not think of the trouble as what it really is how are you to suspect that the vaper is blown out of the crankcase by excessive blow-by of combustion gases? What seems to be a simple, though mysterious, 'leak' usually is evidence that the piston rings or cylinder walls, or both, are in bad condition."

The idea of giving your lights the far focus if the driver of the approachinig car fails to drop his lights is always a dangerous one. If you want to attract his attention give him some other signal such as snapping on the fog light which is never focused so as to blind him. Sometimes I have found it helpful to sound the horn.

One thing that always amazed me when driving with people who are annoyed by blinding lights is that invariably they fail to slow down when facing glare. If the other fellow won't play ball at least it is common sense to make sure you are not driving too fast for clear reading of the road.

Just Needs Better Ground

When a fender lamp goes dead the chances are that it is suffering from a bad ground. This is certain to be the case if the lamp occasionally lights up, particularly if you grasp the lamp firmly and try to shake it. Usually there is a grounding strip of metal held to the underside of the fender by the bolts that hold the lamp, and it is certain that in time a lot of rust will build up. All you have to do by way of remedy is to remove the plate and clean it with a file. Some mechanics drill a couple of holes in the lamp base and through the fender, then inserting nuts and bolts. The other way is easier.

Styled To Suit You

The news that an enterprising Minneapolis body man is offering a re-styling service for owners of older cars merely brings out into the open that motordom has at last reached the point where it no longer is willing to be pulled around by any one car maker's styling. The car manufacturers have brought this on themselves by not being sufficiently daring in design. Now the trend is rapidly toward distinctioin. Individuality in car design, long an unknown quantity, now is coming into the open with plenty of support from motorists who like to be themselves. A wide assortment of available super-accessories will aid the trend. Color is another avenue of opportunity for those who want their cars, new or old, to reflect their own personal taste. After all, why should the automobile industry tell you what you ought to like?

Excessive backlash in a car's drive universals. Thus when N. B. McN. line is usually an indication of worn

STATE TEACHERS COLLEGES' BILL VETOED BY DUFF

Harrisburg, July 5 (AP)—A $6,101,990 Legislative appropriation for improvements at Pennsylvania State Teachers' colleges was tossed on the scrap heap today.

Gov. James H. Duff vetoed the measure yesterday, declaring that no provision was made in his budget "for an expenditure of this nature and of this size."

Adopted in the final hours of the 1947 Legislature, the bill allocated funds ranging from $260,000 to $722,000 to the various colleges with additional sums for the purchase of new instructional equipment.

Called "Afterthoughts"

An allocation of $6,500,000 for maintenance of the 14 schools, including funds for repairs and new equipment, is already contained in the general appropriation bill, now awaiting the governor's signature. The allocation two years ago was $4,800,000.

Duff, commenting on the measure he vetoed, said the "bill contains a number of items for which no budget request was submitted by the institutions, indicating, to some extent, that requests to the Legislature, upon which this bill was based, were an afterthought and possibly not a long-felt need."

Individual allocations proposed by the Legislature included:

Indiana, repairs $346,000, equipment, $26,000; Lock Haven, repairs, $497, equipment, $22,000; Shippensburg, repairs, $388,000, equipment, $12,000.

Also included was a $675,000 allocation to the Soldiers' Orphans' School at Scotland, Franklin county, for which the one general budget includes a $610,000 appropriation.

Dear Susan Brown

Chapter 8

Incredible as it seemed, Susan awoke the next morning to a world that had gone miraculously bright. It was a place of magic and beauty and friendly good will, in which the unpleasant events of the night before were so remote as to be nothing more than the fanciful repercussions of an impossible nightmare.

"A new day," murmured Susan, wide awake now. "A new chance to look up, to laugh, to love, and to live. I must remember that," she added. "It's a nice line, even if I did make it up. It'll make a wonderful column, if only I can write it the way I feel it right now."

In her present mellow frame of mind Susan not only felt sorry for the undersized Frank Gaines; she felt just a little sorry for everybody. It was that kind of a morning.

Even Bella's graceless behavior and feline remarks were understandable now. It was clear that the poor girl had never had much of a chance. Because of her size and ungainly appearance, she'd never had fun like other girls. No wonder she had gone sour. Susan wished devoutly that she had not lost her temper and told that big lie.

"I'll make it up to poor Bella," she promised. "Hereafter I'll be just as cordial and sweet as I can."

She could understand the housekeeper's ungracious behaviour, too. Mrs. Elton was overworked. The poor creature had a right to be upset over the prospect of fourteen people descending upon her. Susan made a mental note to help Mrs. Elton with the housework—or at least to offer her services.

She searched her mind, but could find no reason to feel sorry for Mr. Elton, beyond the fact that he was henpecked. But the very thought of that gentleman conjured up visions of the heavy rains which he had predicted. So she decided to skip Mr. Elton and go on to Mrs. Tremont.

"It must have been ghastly for her," thought Susan, "coming to Oceanview as a paid chaperone and companion, when only a few years ago she was mistress of an estate just as beautiful. No wonder she had raided the wine cellar. I don't blame her one bit!"

She chose to forget that only yesterday she had been highly indignant at Cora Tremont for making the misstep which she was condoning right now.

Theere was a light knock at the door and a voice, unmistakably Mrs. Tremont's, called:

"Are you awake, dear?"

"Yes—oh, yes. I've been awake for hours," answered Susan, a little inaccurately. "I was just thinking."

"May I come in?"

"Yes. Yes, of course."

The door opened and the woman came in. She was wearing a yellow cotton-print dress, and her gray hair was arranged most becomingly held in place by a black velvet-ribbon band. Her face was very pale, her eyes a trifle hollow, but she was obviously quite sober. However, Mrs. Tremont looked almost pretty, in a fragile, pathetic sort of way.

"But I won't let her get under my skin," Susan vowed. "I'll be polite, but very casual—a little cold."

Mrs. Trement was carrying a tray, which she brought over and put on the adjustable table by the bed. She drew off the cloth cover, revealing a bowl of diced grapefruit, garnished with mint and set in a nest of crushed ice, a dish of crisp cereal, and two covered dishes presumably containing bacon and eggs and toast. There was a silver pot of steaming coffee and someone—Mrs. Tremont, of course—had put a fragrant spray of sweet-jessamine on the tray.

Susan grinned her delight. "For me?" she exclaimed. "Oh, no!"

"Oh yes." The woman smiled. Then, in a most competent manner, she adjusted the table to a convenient height, arranged the dishes, poured the coffee, "All for you, my dear. Now get busy and enjoy it."

"You darling! But you shouldn't have done this, Mrs. Tremont. Imagine me eating breakfast in bed! I'm not used to such things."

Mrs. Tremont's smiling face showed that she was immensely pleased over Susan's enthusiasm. "I thought it would be fun, having someone do things for you just once," she said.

"I love it!" Susan threw back the sheet, straightened her nightgown, and turned her attention to the food. "And am I hungry!" she announced between bites. "This sea air certainly does things to the old appetite."

"That's fine, I'll go now." Mrs. Tremont was all efficiency. "I'll pick up the tray later. Just take your time, dear. Enjoy your breakfast. Remember we've got a big day in front of us."

Susan's coffee cup paused in midair, and she almost spilled its contents on her nightgown. "That's right," she said with a wry smile. "The other guests will be coming. I was having such a grand time I almost forget about them. I'll get up and dress right away."

Mrs. Tremont, who was now at the door, smiled and shook her head. "Stay right where you are, my dear. And don't hurry about dressing, unless you have something special to do. Remember I'm here to take over the duties of senior hostess, so I don't want you to worry about anything. Everything will turn out fine, I promise you." She hesitated a moment, then added in what Susan thought was a rather ominous voice:

"I—I'd like to see you have fun this week. You see, you're only young once, and youth is so terribly short."

A little while later, when she came back for the breakfast tray, she handed Susan a yellow envelope, saying quite unnecessarily:

"It's a telegram. It just came, and I thought you'd like to have it right away. Perhaps some of our guests are arriving earlier in the day than we expected them."

Susan thanked her, and Mrs. Tremont picked up the tray and left, after repeating her assurances that there was nothing to worry about; nothing she wouldn't do for Susan; that she, as senior hostess, had everything well under control.

The telegram, from one of the prize-winning couples due that afternoon, bore a Trenton, New Jersey, dateline. It was signed Mildred and Martin Flint, and it read:

Can't come. Getting divorce. Advice did not work. Letter follows.

Chapter 9

"Well!" fumed Susan, her temper getting the best of her, in spite of her good resolutions. "That's a fine howdy-do, I must say. 'Getting divorced'—just like that. After I slaved my life away over a balky typewriter, writing reams of copy for their particular benefit. 'Advice did not work.' Well, it's their fault. They just didn't want it to work!"

Susan remembered Mildred and Martin Flint well. It seemed that Martin had a dog that Mildred didn't like, because it mussed up the house; that Mildred had friends whom Martin didn't like, because they popped in at all hours and mussed up their home life. A very silly problem, requiring only an atom of common sense for solution, Susan thought, but it was playing havoc with Mildred's and Martin's romance.

She had not printed their letters, but she had written a very fine column on the importance of "bearing and forbearing," and she had dedicated it "To Mildred and Martin." She had written other columns, pointing out the need for genuine teamwork in marriage and the perils of making mountains out of molehills. She had stressed the necessity of overlooking inconsequential things, hoping they would read and be warned. And now this! She had done her best, but best hadn't been good enough for Mildred and Martin.

She recalled Mildred's prize-winning letter, reporting that all was well in the Flint household, thanks to "America Loves" and its excellent love columnist.

"I suppose I should be glad they aren't coming," Susan decided. "We'll have one less couple to worry about."

But somehow she couldn't be glad. It seemed a shame that perfectly good marriage should fall apart because of a mischievous puppy and a few gregarious friends. Too, it gave her a vague sense of failure to realize that her advice had not worked.

She showered and dressed leisurely, recalling Mrs. Tremont's assurance that everything was under control. After some consideration, she decided to put on the dusty pink tennis costume. She would stop all this worrying and have fun, just as Mrs. Tremont had suggested. Perhaps she could inveigle someone into a game of tennis before the other guests began to arrive. She was glad, however, that the dusty pink outfit included a wrap-around skirt in addition to shirt and shorts. She would put that on and, if no one wanted to play, she could save face.

She tied a piece of ribbon around her blonde hair, allowing her curls to hang loose. She added a touch of lipstick to her mouth, for courage, and hurried downstairs. She would ask Bella to play tennis. That would be a good way to prove that there was no hangover of hard feelings from the night before. Moreover, she would be doing Bella a real favor.

"That girl needs exercise," she told herself virtuously. "She's too big already. With that big frame of hers, she doesn't need another ounce of fat."

Bella was seated in the living room, idly turning the pages of a confession magazine and looking far more like a lonely-heart than a bride. She shook her head when Susan suggested tennis. No, she said, she'd rather just sit. Susan refrained from voicing the thought that came to her mind: "You're just about the sittingest girl I ever saw in my life, baby!" Instead, she smiled brightly, and said:

"You don't mind if I play, do you? That is, if I can find somebody to make it a twosome. It's such a gorgeous day outside. Seems a shame to stay indoors."

Bella shook her head. "No, I don't mind. But I'd rather just sit here and wait for Frank. He's been out all morning. I can't understand what's come over him." Her eyes were deep pools of regret but there was a petulant note in her voice when she added:

"I thought marriage meant companionship. Didn't you, dear Mrs. Brown?"

Susan smiled again, but she did not commit herself. She gave Bella's broad shoulder a sympathetic pat and escaped to the tennis court.

As much as he wanted a companion, she was a little dismayed to find that Steve Gellis had preceded her. But she was pleased to discover, a moment later, that this was a very charming Steve Gellis, a far cry from the brusque young publisher who spoke of his readers as "the little people" and sat up nights thinking up crazy contests to harass one Susan Brown. He grinned boyishly and said:

"Well, what do you know! There must be something to this wishful thinking racket after all. I was just wishing for a playmate. And along comes Susie—just as obliging as ever, and twice as beautiful. Feel up to a few sets of tennis?"

"What on earth has come over the man?" thought Susan, but she grinned back at him and said:

"I'd love it—although I'm warning you, you may be sorry. I haven't played tennis in centuries—well it seems like centuries," she added when he laughed. "However, I'll do my best to make it interesting."

He handed Susan a racquet; she took off her skirt, tossed it on the grass, and the game began. She saw at once that he played a fast game, that he was tempering his skill to meet her lack of it. But that didn't matter too much, as long as she didn't play too badly. Men did not like girls who were too proficient. Or did they?

It seemed that they'd been playing only a few minutes, although it was almost an hour, when they saw Mrs. Tremont coming toward them.

"Yoo-hoo!" she called. "Sorry to break up such a beautiful game," she said as she drew near, "but you children had better come in and get ready for lunch."

"We're eating out on the north terrace, near the rose garden—sort of picnic style. I thought it might be fun fou you, dear."

"Yes, it will be." Susan gave the kindly woman's arm a grateful squeeze. "You think of everything, Mrs. Tremont. I'll never be able to thank you enough."

Riding With Russel

could not find such wear he was puzzled into thinking there was something mysterious about the situation. It was a long trek to a diagnosis but I can spare you the details by going straight to the conclusion that the clutch disc was loose on its shaft.

Scarcity Less Scarce

If the battery situation is any index of motordom in general we are a lot nearer the time when anyone can have his pick of the new cars than it now appears. A friend of mine who operates a large car dealership just received a delayed shipment of 800 batteries. You will recall that the ink is hardly dry on the many warnings that were issued to the effect that scarcity of lead would make batteries uncomfortably "tight." This dealer has been urging his friends in the business to take over some of the surplus, and I know one who accepted a dozen batteries reluctantly. The other day when my battery needed a charging the battery man did not have any rentals on hand so he loaned me a brand new one. He had quite a supply.

What's Your Trouble?

Q. There is an occasional missing in my motor when the car is climbing a hill, and I suspect the breaker points. However, I have looked at the points and they seem to be all right. What would you suggest doing next? The valves definitely are not sticking.—R. T. H.

A. I don't know how you can tell about the points without removing them for a close check-up. Take them out and I'll wager you'll want to replace them.

Q. A friend of mine told me to slip the clutch now and again to burn off any oil that gets on the lining and to check chatter. I have tried this but things seem to be getting worse.—L. M. B.

A. When you have tried a remedy and it doesn't prodnce results, why not conclude that your diagnosis is wrong? You have plenty of evidence now to show that the clutch is chattering because its lining is worn or glazed. If you continue with that slipping trick you'll just make matters worse.

Q. There doesn't seem to be any way to get normal equalization from the brakes of my car. I have spent a lot of money on them. There is no leakage of brake fluid. Tires have similar treads. I am careful about inflation. Best description of the way the brakes act is to say that they seem unbalanced.—T. M. B.

A. I suggest that you check the brake shoes. You'll probably find one or two that are distorted.

Q. Before I decide to have the engine overhauled I'd like to know if there is some simple condition I have overlooked in trying to get the engine to idle properly. Mixture, valves, compression all check normal.—W. A.

A. Perhaps this motor's ignition is timed too early.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern street, Hartford, Connecticut, and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

HOLIDAY FATAL TO 13 IN STATE; AUTOS KILL FIVE

(By The Associated Press)

Death accompanied Pennsylvanians taking advantage of a four-day Fourth of July week-end slightly more than half over, with at least 13 persons killed in the state and nine others from Pennsylvania dying in New Jersey.

Five were traffic fatalities, five drownings, two others were victims of heart attacks and one an accidental death within the borders of the state.

Six other Pennsylvanians drowned in Jersey and a father and his two children died in a plane crash in Camden.

Thomas S. Yarnall, 37, a fire brick salesman of Easttown, Chester county, had rented a plane at Conshohocken to take his daughter, Susie, 8, and son, Thomas, Jr., 3, on a holiday ride. The plane crashed in a thickly-populated section of East Camden, killing all three occupants.

Many Deaths On Roads

At Stone Harbor, N. J., Daniel Martin, 62, of Ardmore, his son-in-law, William I. Smith, Sr., 35, of Reading, and Smith's sister, June, 22, also of Reading, drowned while bathing in an unprotected area. Smith's two children, William, Jr., 9, and Marilyn, 11, were rescued by lifeguards. On the beach were Smith's wife and a friend, Mrs. Katherine Erteel of Shillington. They were all on vacation.

Traffic fatalities in the state: Mrs. Gladys Botterbusch Sipe, 29, teacher and bride of less than a month; Paul Bolichoski, 65, Erie; Mrs. Melinda Davis, 51, Cambridge Springs, killed at Leesburg in headon crash of two automobiles which injured four others; Pfc. Frank G. Camalleri, 19, a marine whose address was not learned, killed near Gettysburg in crash of car which injured six companions, and Elizabeth Ann Brennan, 5, Williamsport.

Drowning Victims

Drowings in the state: Rita Lee Guyer, 8, Johnstown, and Mickey Leslach, 23, Johnstown, drowned in a boat that overturned at Laurel Hill state park near Somerset. Three others were rescued; Reita Vallentine, 25, Erie, at Peninsula state park; James White, 17, Ardmore, at Morton pool, Delaware county; Mary Corbet, 16, Philadelphia, in Pennypack creek.

John H. Brightbill, 45, Harrisburg, died of a heart attack while attending a family outing, and Mrs. Charles Roland, about 56, Centralia, died of a heart attack while attending a family picnic at Catawissa park.

Mark W. Miller, 54, died of a fracture of the skull resulting from a fall from a 30-foot cliff into Cocalico creek near Ephrata.

Hundreds Injured

In New Jersey, Earl Green, 25, of Philadelphia, drowned at Wildwood Crest, and his companion, Alfred Dobson, 26, also of Philadelphia, was missing and presumed drowned.

At Almonessen, N. J., William Colsher, 9, Philadelphia, was found dead in a lake after being reported missing for six hours.

Hundreds of Keystone staters were injured in automobile accidents. At Wildwood, N. J., a number of Pennsylvanians were caught in the collapse of a section of grandstand along the boardwalk at Convention Hall.

At least 12 states are using license plates made of aluminum.

Things Of The Soil

July—Lawn, Garden And Farm

1 to 10—

Make a final planting of gladiolus corms.

Cease cutting rhubarb and feed the clumps with well rotted manure and a complete fertilizer.

Cut no more asparagus shoots and give the bed a dressing of 3 to 4 pounds of complete fertilizer to every 100 square feet, also some finely pulverized manue.

Plant sweet corn for the final late crop for canning and drying.

Summer squash may be started this late, also kohlrabi.

Make a final planting of cucumbers, especially for pickle roles.

When grapes begin to touch in their clusters, spray with Bordeaux mixture, adding arsenate of lead and rosin fish-oil soap.

Set out well rooted celery plants, also cabbage for the late crop.

Plant seed of Chinese cabbage and Swiss chard in rows where the crops are to grow.

Plant irises or divide and replant crowding old clumps.

Begin spraying the basal portions of squash and pumpkins to control the vine borer.

11 to 20—

Remember that sweet corn ear worms can be controlled. If methods are not known, write the editor for details.

Well rooted broccoli plants may be set out as late as the middle of the month.

To keep most annual flowers blooming, remove faded blooms and seed pods. Seed formation ends the blooming period.

Keep in touch with the editor or the County Farm Agent to learn if late blight of tomatoes is coming north this year.

Sow turnips any time before July 20.

Prevent all weeds from maturing seed. Immature weeds may be used profitably on the compost heap.

Use a 5 per cent DDT solution in kerosene, as sold already prepared, to combat ants in kitchen and pantry.

Spray peaches with dry wettable sulphur one month before each variety begins to ripen. This application prevents brown rot.

21 to 31—

Time nears to plant the beautiful Oriental poppy. Ask the editor for your free copy of full planting and care instructions.

Screen stables and use repellant sprays to keep livestock flies from taking their toll of blood (and profits).

Stagnant water is necessary for mosquitoes to breed. Keep stagnant water removed from the neighborhood and there will be no mosquitoes.

Sow parsley seed in a mellow, fertile loam.

Provide fresh water for poultry daily, furnished in a comfortable shade and clean drinking receptacles.

Rotenone applied as a dust is the best remedy to control the Mexican bean beetle. It is both safe and effective.

Bordeaux mixture will prevent late blight of potatoes but it will not cure the infection after leaves show symptoms.

Continue to write the editor to ask all the questions arising from insects, plant diseases and other seasonal problems.

Summer Care Of Rhubarb

There are four major rules to remember in maintaining rhubarb vigor as pertains to harvesting practices. They are: (1) Cut no stalks the first summer after planting; (2) Take only a few of the larger stalks the second summer; (3) Always cease cutting from older established clumps by the last of June and no later than the first week of July; and (4) Feed clumps liberally in late summer and keep weeds removed to stimulate growth until the tops die back in autumn. Perhaps a fifth rule should be added—Do not allow rhubarb clumps to develop seed stalks at any time.

As in all other gardening rules, there are in these pertaining to rhubarb culture sound reasons to lend them credence. Rhubarb is like peonies, dahlias, daffodils and other plants which grow from underground parts—tubers, matted roots or bulbs. In each case the next year's vigor depends on how fully the underground parts are nourished in late summer the previous season. Therefore, cutting stalks from rhubarb clumps later than early July results in robbing the roots of strength which they seek to store as a guarantee of normal growth the next year.

And for the same sound reason development of seed stalks in late summer steals strength away from rhubarb roots. Thus, rules for growing this fine vegetable always place emphasis on cessation of cutting by July 1 and complete removal of seed stalks the remainder of the growing season. Of course, in conjunction with these two safeguards of clump strength should be employed a policy of clean tillage and adequate feeding.

The sole purpose of rhubarb cultivation at any time is to eliminate weeds and grass. And this is true of late summer tillage. Deep cultivation is injurious and unnecessary.

Many growers apply well rotted manure after the final cutting in late June or early July. In the absence of this some complete fertilizer may be worked lightly into the surfounding soil, something ranging from a 4-12-4 to a 6-8-6 mixture. Many commercial growers in the New Jersey area use a 5-10-4 strength.

In most cases where rhubarb is grown in home gardens for family use the clumps need no additional preparation for winter. However, if mulched liberally with strawy manure after the ground freezes, rhubarb winters well and the mulch can be spaded into the soil in early spring as a source of additional organic matter. But mulching should never be practiced to prevent freezing. One of the keys to rhubarb success is that the root mass freezes over winter. This explains why the crop cannot be grown in the south.

Perhaps a better method is to ridge the rows with soil in late fall, not sufficiently to cover the crown but mainly to provide good surface draining, after which the manure mulch is applied.

Old and badly crowded clumps may be divided and replanted in late October or early March. Failure to separate crowding clumps may result in smaller crown buds and slimmer stalks. Soil for new plantings should be prepared in late summer and fall and new roots or old clump divisions planted as early in March as soil and weather conditions permit.

CLEAN TOWN STREETS

Borough employes, under the direction of Borough Engineer LeRoy H. Winebrenner, worked early Friday morning and again this morning to clean the streets so that Gettysburg might present a neat appearance for the many tourists here for the July 4 holiday and long week-end.

Camden, N. J., July 5 (AP)—A plane crash in a thickly-populated section of East Camden killed a father and two young children he took on a holiday ride. The father, Thomas S. Yarnall, 37, of near Berwyn, Pa., died an hour after the crash yesterday. His children, Susie, eight, and Thomas, Jr., three, were pronounced dead at a hospital where rescuers took their crumpled bodies. Mrs. Yarnall collapsed in hysteria after identifying the victims.

Los Angeles, July 5 (AP)—Numerous conflagrations, burning over thousands of acres in widely scattered sections of California, kept fire fighters on the jump in scorching temperatures today with many homes already destoryed and other property damage mounting hourly.

Worst of the blazes occurred in Los Angeles, San Diego and San Luis Obispo counties, where near-record automobile travel over the July 4th holidays was reported.

STRAND THEATRE

MONDAY and TUESDAY

The attraction at the Majestic theatre, beginning on Monday, is Hunt Stromberg's psychological drama of a beautiful woman in search of a new personality, "Dishonored Lady." Starring Hedy Lamarr as the fickle, restless Madeleine Damien, brilliantly successful as the art editor of a smart magazine and the toast of New York night life, the picture features Dennis O'Keefe and John Loder as two contenders for her hand, representing respectively the life she hopes to lead and the life she is trying to forget.

Prominently cast in the film, which United Artists is releasing, are William Lundigan as a charming weakling who maliciously involves Miss Lamarr in a murder scandal as she tries to remodel her life, Natalie Schafer as her coworker on the magazine, Paul Cavanagh as her editor and Morris Carnovsky as the psychiatrist who helps her find the path to happiness.

WEDNESDAY

Starring Sonny Tufts and Ann Blyth in one of the most unusual stories ever filmed, "Swell Guy," produced by Mark Hellinger for Universal-International release plays Wednesday at the Majestic theatre.

In a complete departure from anything he has ever done on the screen, Tufts is presented as a "wrong guy." He plays the role of a renegade war correspondent mistakenly accepted as a hero in a small California town where he arrives after the war, to visit his mother, brother, sister-in-law and nephew.

THURSDAY

One of the most ambitious films to be made, "Stairway to Heaven" is the sensational story of a British airman in love with an American WAC, whose soul is fought for by the forces of heaven and earth. David Niven plays the leading role. Hollywood's Kim Hunter, borrowed for the part by J. Arthur Rank, is seen as the girl that Niven loves. Roger Livesey, remembered for his outstanding performance, as Colonel Blimp; Raymond Massey, as a sardonic shade from the Other World; Marius Goring, the brilliant young English star, and a large cast of expert players appear in support.

FRIDAY and SATURDAY

Van Johnson and June Allyson who head the cast of "High Barbaree."

Van Johnson and June Allyson are sweethearts again, this time in "High Barbaree," M-G-M's stirring drama of an everlasting love, which opens Friday at the Majestic theatre.

Shifting from a dramatic episode in which a crippled plane is forced down on the South Pacific with two men facing a relentless doom, the story of "High Barbaree" flashes back to a small midwestern town, the home of Alec Brooke and Nancy Fraser. Portrayed in their childhood stages by Claude Jarman, Jr., and little Joan Wells, the narrative brings them to the adult roles played by Johnson and Miss Allyson, with Alec now shown as a successful airplane corporation executive who has renounced his ambition to become a doctor under the persuasion of his boss's alluring daughter, Diana (Marilyn Maxwell).

ALLENTOWN IS DOUBLE WINNER

(By The Associated Press)

The Allentown Cardinals held a game and a half lead in the Interstate league today after winning a holiday twin bill from the Wilmington Clippers while second-place Harrisburg was dividing its doubleheader with third-place Hagerstown.

Allentown edged Wilmington 6 to 5 in an afternoon engagement behind Rolland Chalifoux, with Bruce Smith and Frank Hecklinger providing the punch at the plate. In a night game, the Cardinals chased six runs across in a sixth inning rally to win easily 9 to 3. Pitcher Augie Zande contributed a home run to the Allentown attack.

The Hagerstown Owls stopped Harrisburg 4 to 2 in the first game of two but the Senators came back to get the nod 5 to 4 in a ding-dong nightcap. Trailing 4 to 0 at the end of six innings, the Senators rallied for all their tallies in the seventh. Knowles Piercey was credited with his 10th win against no defeats.

In other games the York White Roses defeated the Sunbury Yankees twice, 10 to 7 and 9 to 1 to record their sixth straight win and Trenton downed Lancaster 4 to 2 and 6 to 5, the second game going 10 innings. Right Fielder Wilbur Jackson lined a single to left field to score Bobby Hoffman with the game-winning runs in the second contest.

Today's schedule: Hagerstown at York; Sunbury at Harrisburg; Wilmington at Trenton; Lancaster at Allentown.

Flashes Of Life

READY FOR THE FLEET

London, (AP)—When two U. S. battleships, two aircraft carriers and four destroyers turned up on a goodwill mission, the British Admiralty fretted that the Americans mightn't have nice girls to entertain them at dances and things.

So the Admiralty sent out a circular to its girl employes, inviting volunteers.

Today, prefectly deadpan, the Admiralty reported "a very ready response." In fact, said a spokesman, "We now have a waiting list."

UNEXPECTED MEETING

Costa Mesa, Calif., (AP)—The Conley brothers ran into each other, unexpectedly, over the holiday.

On the highway near here, cars driven by Thomas Conley, 46, of Lynwood, and George Conley, 40, Costa Mesa, collided.

Both families were out for drives and had no idea the other was in the vicinity, the brothers told officers.

FLEA CENSUS

Chicago, (AP)—Fido, it appears has lots of reason for scratching.

The journal of the American Veterinary Medical association says there are nearly 300 different kinds of fleas.

"The "flea census" listed 230 types in the western section of the country and 55 in the eastern states. Cats, chickens, livestock and even humans are subject to the miseries brought by the insects, the journal says.
